Three More Bodies Found Near Mazuma, Nev., and Injured Man Dies

TRAIN RACES WALL WATER

Passengers in California Have Narrow Escape—Damage in Royal Gorge

RENO, Nev., July 19.—With the death of John Trenchard and discovery of three unidentified bodies in Wild Horse canyon, seven miles away from the town of Reno, Thursday night, which wiped out the camp of Mazuma, and partially destroyed Seven Troughs, is brought to 13. Nine are seriously injured, six of whom are unidentified. The dead:

JOHN TRENCHARD, merchant, Mazuma.

MIKE WAILEN, miner, Mazuma.

EDNA RUDDELL, postmistress, Mazuma.

PERCY GILLESPIE, 10 years old, Mazuma.

FOUR CHILDREN of William Schor, 7 years old, Mazuma.

MRS. MILEAN, Seven Troughs.

MRS. FLOYD FOUNCANNON, Seven Troughs.

THREE UNIDENTIFIED, found in Wild Horse canyon.

Seriously injured:

Mrs. John Trenchard, Mazuma, may be.

Mrs. William Kehoe, Mazuma, may be.

J. O. Hanley, Mazuma.

Six unidentified.

Damage More Than Expected.

Investigation shows the flood swept wider area than first known. In addition to Seven Troughs and Mazuma, it extended to Burnt canyon, several miles from Seven Troughs, and Wild Horse canyon, seven miles distant. The bodies of victims were almost entirely denuded and in many cases were carried a distance of three miles.

John Trenchard and his wife, first reported dead, were found to be still alive. They were internally injured and the former died today. Mrs. Kehoe reported dead, is still missing. The property loss is estimated at $50,000, including the cyanide plant the Seven Troughs Coal Mining company, totally destroyed.

Train Races Cloudburst.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., July 19.—Passengers who were aboard a train on the way here when a cloudburst broke last night near Perris, told today how the glimmer raced against a towering wall of water which swept through the canyon in order to save his train being overwhelmed. The train noticed the wall of water rolling down the canyon toward the railroad tracks. The engineer opened the throttle and managed to beat the flood to Perris.

The floods softened the roadbed and used some delay today in traffic, as country about Anderson, a station on the line, was under several feet of water and great damage was done to crops.

CANON CITY, July 19.—A cloudburst last night at Canon creek, northwest of this city, caused a rise of 12 1/2 feet in the Arkansas river, through the Royal Gorge at the point the Hankins bridge. Thirty feet of ice pipe in the intake of the Canon city reservoir was washed out. The city will be on short water supply for several days until the damage can be repaired.

Prosecutor Tries to Break Story of McNamara's Told by Steffens

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Lincoln Steffens and District Attorney Fredrick, the two men who claimed to have brought about the termination of the McNamara case, faced each other today in the bribery trial of Clarence Darrow. The question of the rights of the defense, the witness, that what he said was a social crime should not be punished, but that conditions which led to such crimes as dynamiting could be treated instead, was more at issue than the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused.

Introduced by himself at the very beginning of his cross-examination as far more than an avowed anarchist, a man who believed in Christianity, Steffens discussed his economic beliefs, often disregarding the objections of the defense attorneys as he did the rights of the prosecution.

Asked on redirect examination what meant by his reply as to his beliefs, Steffens said that he was worse, than an anarchist in the sense that he was more radical, for while an anarchist demanded justice, Christianity demanded love and charity in addition.

Sticks to Settlement Story.

LOCAL COUPLE TRENCHARDS FORMERLY LIVED IN SPRINGS

Wife of Matthew A. Mayhew—Details of Catastrophe Received

John Trenchard, formerly a resident of Colorado Springs, died at an early hour this (Saturday) morning, and Mrs. John Trenchard lies at the point of death in a hospital. Both were caught in the terrible flood, which wiped out 12 lives at Mazuma and Seven Troughs, Nev., Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Trenchard is a sister of Matthew A. Mayhew, 1614 East San Miguel street.

Mr. Mayhew received a telegram yesterday afternoon, stating that his sister is in a critical condition, but it is thought that her life will be saved. Her husband's life was despaired of at that time. Mr. and Mrs. Trenchard were residents of this city several years ago, and moved to Mazuma, Nev., a mining camp, and opened up a furniture store.

Thursday afternoon, Mr. Trenchard stepped to the door of his store and saw a wall of water rushing down the gulch only a few feet away. It carried him and his wife for two miles, away from the wreckage of their store and home. Rescue parties found the two lying close together, apparently dead, but signs of life were seen, and first-aid methods were used to good advantage.

TAFT REPLY TO BE COUNTER ATTACK ON THE ROOSEVELT PRECONVENTION CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The reply of President Taft and his friends to Colonel Roosevelt's repeated charges of "fraud" and the "stealing of delegates" in the Chicago convention, promises to be looked from several sources in Washington next week, coincided in terms that will be in many ways a counter attack upon the Roosevelt preconvention campaign.

The statement that will be issued from the White house, the final draft of which was considered by the cabinet today, will be an exhaustive analysis of the contest cases, and a reply to all the Roosevelt charges of unfair dealing.

While this statement will not, so far as can be learned, make any direct charges against the Roosevelt managers, it is understood that Taft supporters in the house propose to attack in unmeasured terms the contents brought by the Roosevelt forces in southern states, many of which were unanimously decided against the Roosevelt contestants.

Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, who was a member of the credentials committee at the Chicago convention, will make one of the chief speeches defending the seating of the Taft delegates at Chicago. Representative Barthold of Missouri, who participated in the work of the national committee, will defend the action of that committee.

EXPLOSION LEAVES KANSAS CITY, KAN., WITHOUT WATER

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—Kansas City, Kan., is practically without a water supply tonight as the result of the dynamiting of a 16-inch flow pipe. The explosion occurred at 11 o'clock at a point where the pipe runs near the surface. It is expected some parts of the city will be supplied with water in the morning.

Did Not Want Any Hanging.

"You were willing, were you not, Mr. Steffens," asked the district attorney, "that James B. McNamara should be hanged if John J. could go free?"

"No, sir, never for a minute," was the emphatic reply.

The witness surprised the prosecution when he said that it was understood by him that Judge Bordwell would hang James B. McNamara.

"The judge was very particular to have it appear that he knew nothing of an agreement," he said.

"How did you know that?" demanded Steffens.

FIRST SESSION OF ASSEMBLY IS HELD

Cascade Conference On; Two Homeliest Ministers in State to Be Elected

With a large tent city and many guests at the Hotel Ramona, at Cascade, the annual meeting of the assembly began last evening. The directors, composed of leading ministers and laymen of the Baptist church of Colorado, met for a business conference yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the program began at 7 o'clock, with a praise service led by Dr. E. T. Russell of Denver, author and composer of the famous hymn, "The King's Business." Following this was a formal address by the Rev. W. C. P. Ripley of Las Animas, president of the assembly association, who welcomed the large delegations and made a sane and prophetic statement of the purpose and possibilities of the present meeting. The speaker of the evening was then introduced, Dr. P. W. Trannell, president of the Baptist Theological seminary of Kansas City, who spoke on "The Significance of the Higher Education and Training."

One of the novel features of the assembly will be the election by secret ballot of two men who will pose as the homeliest men in the ministry in the state of Colorado. This will be exciting, as it is understood that there will be several candidates. The conservative, if not reactionary candidate, is understood, is from one of the towns north of Denver. He has been elected before to this distinction and is anxious for this year. The progressive candidate is from Pueblo, and is putting up a good fight for the honors this year. The returns of the ballot will be announced from the platform, and the successful candidates will make speeches accepting the honors.

The program for today follows:

Today's Program.

7 a.m.—Morning Watch, led by the Rev. Mr. T. Davis La Junta.

8 a.m.—Introduction to study classes in passion. Address, "The Value of Study," Dr. T. P. Stafford, Canon City. Registration in classes.

10 a.m.—Sunday School Teachers' training class, led by the Rev. William J. Sly, assisted by Prof. W. E. Rafferty.

Home Missions, led by Dr. Bruce Kilmer, assisted by the Rev. C. C. Cross.

11 a.m.—Lecture, "The Christian's Mission," by Mrs. William J. Sly.

Primary class methods, led by Mrs. P. L. Chappelle, assisted by Mrs. H. K. Shaw, Denver, and Miss Eva May Moss, Colorado Springs.

11 a.m.—Address, "The Boy and His Home," Prof. W. F. Rafferty, Kansas City.

7 p.m.—Twilight service in Canon, led by Dr. Bruce Kilmer.

7:45 p.m.—Song service. Sermon, "The Christian's Mission," by the Rev. C. C. Cross, Colorado City.

SPEED RECORDS BROKEN BY NEW DREADNOUGHT

Battleship Wyoming Makes 22.045 Knots Despite a Strike by Firemen During Trial

ROCKLAND, Maine, July 19.—All speed records for big gun battleships were broken today by the new battleship Wyoming, sister ship of the superdreadnought Arkansas, during her standardizing trials. Her speed of 22.45 knots is declared by naval experts aboard to be the fastest ever made by any battleship in the world carrying 12-inch guns.

The Arkansas, a month ago, made 21.48 knots an hour, a record-breaking performance at that time.

A strike in the fire room during the full speed runs interfered somewhat with the operation of the Wyoming today and even better speed might have been made, according to officials, but for this trouble. The firemen struck for more pay and before the difficulty was adjudged the steam fell off considerably.

In spite of the trouble the Wyoming broke the full speed record and bettered the Arkansas average for the five top speed runs. The Wyoming's average was 21.32 knots and that of the Arkansas 21.15.

The record is not yet completed, and it is expected will be put in commission about the middle of August.

DESPERADO IS KILLED

Member of posse Shoots Cattle Rustler Through Head When Latter Tries to Escape

EL PASO, Tex., July 19.—Bob Ross, a desperado wanted by the authorities of Lincoln county, New Mexico, was killed by a member of the posse of Deputy Sheriff Roberts on a ranch near Ocampo, N. M., yesterday, according to information received here tonight. A brother-in-law of Ross, by the name of Whitmore, surrendered after the killing of Ross, and was taken to Carrizosa. Warrants had been out for the two men for more than a year on charges of cattle rustling and when they returned to that section a few days ago, a posse was formed to capture them. They attempted to escape when surrounded, and a pistol shot from a member of the posse struck Ross in the head, killing him instantly.

EMPEROR MUTSUHITO.

JAPANESE EMPEROR IS CRITICALLY ILL

TOKYO, July 20.—Emperor Mutsuhito is critically ill. His majesty is suffering from affections of the stomach and brain. He was unconscious Friday.

Emperor Mutsuhito was born November 3, 1857, at Kyoto and has reigned since 1867, when he succeeded his father, Kanmu. He married in 1889 the daughter of Prince Ise.

The heir apparent to the Japanese throne is Prince Yoshihito, a son of the emperor and was born August 31, 1879.

RUSO-JAPANESE DEFENSIVE PACT

MOMENTOUS AGREEMENT AWAITS SIGNATURE

Two Parts, Dealing With Powers in Territories and Duty for Joint Defense

ST. PETERSBURG, July 19.—The signature is impending of a pact establishing a defensive alliance between Russia and Japan. This momentous development would seem consummated with the approaching visit to Russia of the Japanese statesman, Prince Katsura, in his visit is a mere formality. The actual agreement was concluded a fortnight ago, and likely will be signed for Japan by Baron Motono, the Japanese ambassador to Russia, who was its negotiator, and prime mover.

The agreement consists of two parts, two dealing with the delimitation of the spheres of influence of Russia and Japan in Mongolia and Manchuria, which is similar in scope and character to the Anglo-Russian accord of August 31, 1907, regarding Persia, etc. The second part deals with the duty of the two powers for a joint defense in case either power is attacked.

The beginning of the present Russo-Japanese agreement dates back to the days of Foreign Minister Iswolsky, who is a matter of common knowledge that Japanese diplomacy unerringly has urged upon Russia the immense value that would follow such close cooperation as now has been established, especially since Great Britain and Russia.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE BALKS AT ACID TEST

Viewing the political situation in El Paso county in much the same manner as do many other candidates for county office—that a large percentage of the Republicans have been barred from the county assembly—Ollie E. Collins, candidate for the office of county judge on the Republican ticket as a Progressive Republican, yesterday issued a statement refusing to allow his name to be placed before the assembly, preferring to go before the voters by independent petition in the September primaries.

Mr. Collins strongly disapproves the action of the county central committee in demanding a pledge for Taft from all who participate in the county assembly, and refuses to recognize the authority of that body to state who is and who is not a Republican.

Mr. Collins' statement follows:

"I disapprove the action of the county central committee on Monday last, in requiring a pledge for Taft electors as a test of Republicanism, thus barring a large percentage of Republicans from participating in the county assembly. I prefer to go before the Republican voters of El Paso county by petition in the September primaries. I am a candidate for the office of judge of the county court on the Republican ticket as a Progressive Republican, and submit my cause to the voters and the voters of the Republican voters of El Paso county."

BITTERNESS ARISES IN W. F. M. MEETING

Charged That Butte Delegates Under Control of the Mine Owners

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 19.—The twentieth annual convention of the Western Federation of Miners in session at Victor was divided in bitter controversy over the right of the delegates of Butte and New Mexico to keep their seats. The trouble had been brewing ever since the convention opened, but it became acute today, and its final outcome tomorrow seems in the balance.

Thomas Campbell of Butte, in a long speech, backed up the mine owners' contention, the officers recently elected by the Butte local, declaring that the delegates declared to the mine of this city was tainted. The charges were warmly denied by the Butte delegates. They asserted that Campbell hinted that President Meyer had acted unfairly in the matter of seating the delegates. Adjournment was taken in the midst of the debate and the question will be decided tomorrow morning.

The delegates voted by a 20-10 majority to extend the work of the convention. A communication was received by the convention from H. C. McHugh of Lead, offering a hall in the Hotel Dakota for the delegates to the convention, on condition that it develop the property. A similar offer was received from J. K. Thompson, owner of the Black Hills Consolidated company. The communications were referred to a committee.

A telegram was received from Butte charging the Butte Copper Mining company with breaking a contract with the union. The matter will be taken up at the same time as Campbell's charges tomorrow.

FEAR DANGEROUS FEUD

Shasta County, California, Officials Look for Trouble to Follow Murder of Slayer

REDDING, Cal., July 19.—With William Clement and John Clement and Dan Thompson held in jail here on suspicion of having knowledge of the manner in which William C. Landis was murdered last night on the lone road to Buckeye, Shasta county, faces a dangerous family feud, the official fear. The two sons of Landis assert that someone has answered for their father's death and the sheriff believes that other shootings are likely. Landis was on trial for the murder of Mrs. W. C. Bradford, mother of the Clement boys, when he was killed. He was out on bail and was driving to Buckeye when he was waylaid and shot through the chest. The Clements and Thompson were taken into custody and when the district attorney informed them that he would determine who fired the shot, one of the Clements cheerfully remarked that it was his business to try to find out.

Landis had pleaded that he shot Mrs. Bradford in self-defense.

WILSON SPENDS QUIET DAY VISITING FRIENDS

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 19.—Governor Wilson spent a quiet day at his summer home today, most of it devoted to his correspondence and to welcoming visitors who called to congratulate him. Among the latter was Augustus Thomas, the playwright. Mr. Thomas was the governor's guest at luncheon. The governor said tonight that there was no political significance to be attached to the visits of his callers, with the single exception of Chairman McCombs of the national committee. He discussed very briefly with Mr. McCombs the state of the work of the campaign committee. Charles P. Taft, a brother of the president, passed the governor's cottage in an automobile today, sauntered along the driveway in front of the cottage, but did not stop.

Attorney General Says Contention of Denver Lawyer Without Merit

DENVER, July 19.—Attorney N. Water Dixon, contention that the initiative and referendum amendment to the state constitution was not adopted legally is without merit, according to Attorney General Benjamin Griffith, who today gave an opinion upon the subject to Secretary of State James B. Poirer.

It is Dixon's claim in a letter to the secretary that proposed amendments to the constitution must be published in the session laws of the state before they are submitted to the people for ratification. The attorney general finds that such provisions shall be published in the session laws without regard to elections. Other requirements such as publication in newspapers in each county were fulfilled.

The attorney general, therefore, advises Secretary Poirer that it is his duty to put all measures submitted by petition under the initiative and referendum on the ballot.

Attorney Dixon claimed that the secretary could not put the measures on the ballot (again) on the ground that the initiative and referendum amendment was illegal.

RECOMMENDS RESTRICTIONS

At Present Rate Soon Would Take $11,000,000 Annually for Maintenance

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Severe criticism of the government methods of erecting public buildings is contained in the report of the house committee on expenditures in public buildings, which chairman Chas. D. Indiana submitted today.

The committee points out extravagance and waste and the possibility of fraud in public expenditures. It recommends that government buildings be standardized and subjected to public criticism, and that the cost of building be made public for every building constructed by the government. The report finds that since 1902, 721 buildings have been erected and that there are now pending bills for 750 buildings to cost an aggregate of $10,000,000.

If this keeps up, the committee says, there will be 1,320 public buildings inside of 15 years.

Would Require $11,000,000 Annually.

The cost of maintenance alone would be $11,000,000 annually.

The office of the supervising architect of the treasury is criticized. This office is maintained at a cost of $3,000,000 annually. It has had no definite policy, the committee finds, and blame is attached to former supervising architect James Henry Taylor for some of the mistakes discovered.

The committee says the present practice of awarding is bad.

The committee urges that members of congress be less careless in their efforts to erect public buildings. It recommends legislation making it unlawful to erect public buildings in any city or town of less than 10,000 population whose postage takes in less than $10,000 annually.

Uncomplimentary Names.

In the Senate, public buildings of the country today were variously characterized as of the "store box variety," the "chick block" type and a "chicken coop."

Most of the criticism upon the nation's public architecture was made by Senator Heyburn.

The committee was made during consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. The house had put in a provision that would prohibit the purchase of building plans from architects outside the office of the federal supervising architect.

The senate reversed the action of the house and the question will be fought out in conference.

WOMEN STUDENTS VICTIMS ALLEGED CONFIDENCE GAME

GREELEY, July 19.—On a charge of working a confidence game, preferred against them by women students at the State Teachers' college, B. A. Keith, Miss Archard and Alice Gynn were arrested here today. The students accused Keith of signing contracts with the girls for $30 payments for a history course, and that the contracts proved to be promissory notes. A preliminary hearing of the three who claim the transactions were legitimate, will be held tomorrow.

District Attorney Hires Private Detectives in N. Y. Murder Mystery

NEW YORK, July 19.—Private detectives were brought into the Rosenthal murder case today by District Attorney Whitman. They were engaged by a committee of citizens who shared the prosecutor's dissatisfaction with the lack of results achieved by the police in tracing the slayers of the chamberlain who was shot after making charges of police partnership with the gambling fraternity. In addition with the bringing in of these outside agencies, attention was called to what were declared to be important omissions by the police in guarding against the escape of Rosenthal's slayers Sunday night and lack of properly directed activity since. It is declared that the story that Rosenthal was to be killed was in wide circulation in East side resorts Monday evening, but that if any report of it reached headquarters, no measures were taken to protect the gambler.

Murder Party Unhindered.

It is pointed out that the police were unable to stop the murder party after the shooting, and the members of the murder party were reported from the scene of the slaying by the police. District Attorney Hires Private Detectives in N. Y. Murder Mystery

NEW YORK, July 19.—Private detectives were brought into the Rosenthal murder case today by District Attorney Whitman. They were engaged by a committee of citizens who shared the prosecutor's dissatisfaction with the lack of results achieved by the police in tracing the slayers of the chamberlain who was shot after making charges of police partnership with the gambling fraternity. In addition with the bringing in of these outside agencies, attention was called to what were declared to be important omissions by the police in guarding against the escape of Rosenthal's slayers Sunday night and lack of properly directed activity since. It is declared that the story that Rosenthal was to be killed was in wide circulation in East side resorts Monday evening, but that if any report of it reached headquarters, no measures were taken to protect the gambler.

Murder Party Unhindered.

It is pointed out that the police were unable to stop the murder party after the shooting, and the members of the murder party were reported from the scene of the slaying by the police.

Attorney General Says Contention of Denver Lawyer Without Merit

DENVER, July 19.—Attorney N. Water Dixon, contention that the initiative and referendum amendment to the state constitution was not adopted legally is without merit, according to Attorney General Benjamin Griffith, who today gave an opinion upon the subject to Secretary of State James B. Poirer.

It is Dixon's claim in a letter to the secretary that proposed amendments to the constitution must be published in the session laws of the state before they are submitted to the people for ratification. The attorney general finds that such provisions shall be published in the session laws without regard to elections. Other requirements such as publication in newspapers in each county were fulfilled.

The attorney general, therefore, advises Secretary Poirer that it is his duty to put all measures submitted by petition under the initiative and referendum on the ballot.

Attorney Dixon claimed that the secretary could not put the measures on the ballot (again) on the ground that the initiative and referendum amendment was illegal.

SPRECKELS FOR WORKS

Takes Stand Against California Progressives Who Asked U. S. Senator to Resign

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Rudolph Spreckels, banker of this city, and an ardent supporter of Senator La Follette for the presidency, but who has declared himself for Dr. Woodrow Wilson, since the Baltimore convention, has taken a stand against the California Progressives headed by Lieutenant Governor Wallace and Meyer Lissner in their controversy with United States Sen. John D. Works. It became known today that Mr. Spreckels had sent the following telegram to Senator Works, when he learned of the demand of the Progressives that the senator resign:

"During the presidential primary campaign I issued several public statements calling attention to the fact that many of the men who had been successful in the elections against the Southern Pacific machine had organized a machine of their own."

"Today the bosses of this new machine have demanded that you resign as senator. The demand was not based upon your attitude or vote upon matters before the senate, but because you dared make a protest against the improper action of these bosses. As a true Progressive, I regret that political success has turned the heads of so many men in the Republican Progressive movement. The people will not be free until they learn to vote against the rule of every kind and uphold with their voices public men who fearlessly take issue against the bosses."

Britain Anxious to Stop Atrocities in Peru Rubber District

LONDON, July 19.—The atrocities committed in the Putumayo Rubber district of Peru, which universally have been characterized here as surpassing in horror any charged to the rubber collectors of the Congo, apparently will be kept in the limelight until something is done to punish the perpetrators and to bring about the assurance that there will be no repetition.

Questions were launched at the British foreign office in the house of commons today and from the replies it was apparent the foreign office expects to take a subordinate place to the state department at Washington in bringing Peru to book.

"It is clear, I think," said Francis D. Acland, parliamentary secretary for foreign affairs, "that England has a better opportunity of getting things done than any other government interested."

Mr. Acland also referred to the question raised by the United States government as to whether Peru is a suitable state to have control of a district like the Putumayo, or whether that government should not be forcibly dispossessed of it and he promised that "his majesty's government will do anything it possibly can to help any action the United States may take."

One of the objects the undersecretary added of the British foreign office in publishing the blue book on the subject was to influence public opinion in the United States, and he thought it would do good to produce that effect. On being asked what steps the government intended to take against the directors of the rubber company, the speaker answered:

"This is a horrible company."

Mr. Acland said the company was now in liquidation but that the government would be delighted if any of its directors could be made amenable to English law. The government intended to investigate how far they were liable and to bring them to justice if possible.

The speaker added that none of the perpetrators of the outrages was an Englishman.

Nevertheless, Russia naturally hung back, and every step toward completing the alliance was under the compulsion of other events. Thus, the Russo-Japanese agreement of July 4, 1910, providing for the maintenance jointly of the status quo in Manchuria, was a direct result of the ill-fated neutralization scheme for the Manchurian railroads, and the present one was the outcome of a long struggle which taught both powers the necessity for a close union of forces.

A score of the leading sugar brokers and manufacturers will appear as witnesses.

MICHIGAN PROGRESSIVES IN CONVENTION TODAY

JACKSON, Mich., July 19.—Under the oaks in Jackson, where, on July 6, 1904, the Republican party was born, the first state Progressive party convention will be called to order tomorrow. The convention will adjourn to a hall to carry on its regular business. Word was received today from Senator Joseph Dixon that he would attend the convention.

Suffragettes in Dublin in Addition to Hatchet

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 19.—Eight English women have been arrested by the police in connection with the outbreak here last night on the arrival of Mr. Asquith, by suffragettes, who have been constantly dogging the heels of the British premier since he left England.

The women are charged with complicity in the attempt to burn down the Dublin theater, where Mr. Asquith is scheduled to speak today. A blazing chair was thrown into the orchestra from a box occupied by two women, who then set fire to the box curtains. The fire caused a panic among the audience.

The eight also are charged with complicity in the attempt to injure Mr. Asquith by throwing a hatchet at his carriage as the party was proceeding from the wharf to a hotel.

Mrs. Mary Leigh, one of the suffragettes under arrest, was identified as the thrower of the hatchet. It is alleged by the police that she intended to brain Mr. Asquith. Mrs. Leigh has long been a leader in the violent tactics of the militant suffragettes. As far back as July, 1908, she was arrested for breaking windows in a demonstration in London. At that time on being sentenced to two months in prison at hard labor Mrs. Leigh told the court "the next time we come out you can expect bombs."

A year later Mrs. Leigh again was sentenced to two months at hard labor at Birmingham and on being released brought damages against the government for forcible feeding while in prison.

The woman is described by the police as "the most troublesome suffragette" they had to deal with.

Convicted Eight Times.

Mrs. Leigh was convicted for the eighth time in London last November for smashing windows and was sentenced to two months in jail without the option of a fine. The magistrate warned Mrs. Leigh that if she were again convicted she would be sent to jail for a term at hard labor.

One of the women arrested last night gave the name of Gladys Evans and said she came from England.

Mary Leigh, Gladys Evans, Lizzie Baker and Mary Coffey appeared in the police court here today and were committed for trial.

The police testified that a canister, which apparently contained gunpowder, had been exploded in the theater. They had found on Gladys Evans a bag of gunpowder, a portion of theater carpet saturated with petroleum and a basketful of lighters.

Three bottles of benzene and a tin of gunpowder also had been discovered by the police authorities. Their testimony brought out the fact that many lives had been endangered.

The Leigh woman admitted hurling the hatchet at Mr. Asquith's carriage.

Sultan Appeals to Army to Stay Out of Politics

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 19.—The grave nature of the government's difficulties is revealed in a proclamation of the sultan to the army, read to the garrison here today. After announcing the appointment of Tewfik Pasha as grand vizier, the proclamation reminds the troops of their oath of loyalty, and, referring to demands by certain officers as contrary to the constitution and supreme rights of the Khalfate, exhorts the army not to mix in politics, but to devote itself exclusively to the defense of the country.

The proclamation concludes by pointing out that the officers' treasonable attitude had encouraged the enemy to the extent "that the army dared last night to approach the very gates of the capital. This should constitute a warning."

The proclamation was provoked by a meeting of officers at the war office, which delegated Nazim Pasha and Hadji Pasha to submit to the sultan the officers' demand for the dissolution of the chamber of deputies and the appointment of Kiamil Pasha as grand vizier.

UNABLE TO FIND AMERICAN IN TROUBLE IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—Efforts made by the American embassy, consuls and consular agents to find Patrick Dunne, an electrical mechanic, presumed to be in Mexico, have been unsuccessful. Dunne was believed to have gone to Puebla and several were made for him there on telegraphic request from Washington. Letters from Dunne to his mother in New Jersey are said to indicate vaguely that he was under sentence of death and was being tortured.

MRS. MORROW ACQUITTED

CHICAGO, July 19.—Mrs. Rene R. Morrow was found not guilty of the murder of her husband, Charles A. Morrow, an inventor, tonight. The verdict was returned after the jury had deliberated three hours and 10 minutes.

Half crying and half laughing with excitement, Mrs. Morrow shouted: "I knew it would be this way; I knew it would be this way." After thanking the jury she left the court room.

FAIL TO AGREE ON STEEL TRUST REPORT

WASHINGTON, July 19.—After a session lasting until midnight majority members of the house steel trust investigating committee failed to reach an agreement on their report to congress, the chief contention existing over the section of the report written by the chairman, Representative Stanley of Kentucky, on the absorption by the United States Steel corporation of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company in 1907. Some features of the report upon which the committee are agreed include bills for remedial legislation, particularly that amending the Sherman anti-trust law. DISCUSSED BY LYON
GUSTON, Tex., July 15.—Colonel H. Lyon, here today, said that there is to be a third party organized in Texas, the men who placed themselves beyond the pale of the Republican organization will have to join it. The supporters of President Taft are the men I refer to. I am at head of the Republican organization in Texas, and I intend to stay in Texas. Roosevelt is the Republican nominee for president, and Texas electors are already named, instructed, for him.

here can be no just reason why any of this will continue to suffer tortures of an aching back, the danger of urinary disorders, the danger of serious kidney illness when relief is near at hand and the most positive of that these pills can be cured. Read that a Colorado Springs citizen says: "I feel in need of a kidney medicine. I like Doan's Kidney Pills and they benefit me. In my opinion, this is the best one to be had for any complaint. Pain in my back, stiffness extending into my shoulders, and a few doses have relieved me. This preparation should be used by everyone having kidney complaint." Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

At the Theater
WHAT MALCOLM DUNCAN THINKS OF THE SCHEME OF BEING RAFFLE OFF TODAY
A feature of the matinee performance of "The Lottery Man" at the Burns theater this afternoon is to award the leading man of the company to some lady in the audience, yet the popular actor does not object a bit, as the reader may judge from what he has to say. "I'm getting used to being offered as a prize in 'The Lottery Man' but when the holder of the 'lucky number' comes to choose between me and the 'booby'—a five-pound box of Hy-Lers—she has always decided in favor of the package of sweets. Truly I'm disappointed, and this is only sugar, pointed out how Joe had been stung. Joe's little wife, who, like himself, conceived a suspicion of sailor men in future and Joe thereafter was more careful of his naval guests. This little play is taken from Edwin Locke's dialect poem, "Portuguese Joe." It shows the perturbation of the bago bonifare exceedingly well and the jokes which the sailor-men had in his humble inn. The entire show today is a dandy, and the music, well, you know it's good. Now why, well, George and his band of soloists are on the job all of the time, some class to (clack), and you ought to hear Hiser play the chimes; shine classy, just come and hear him—and Fletcher and his fiddle, Ach Himmel Louie, it is grand; such constant refusal in a way reflects on me and in a way hurts my feelings. "I've never been married, and it's about time I was thinking of a place to call home. My natural inclination is domestic, and so far as man goes, I am convinced enough to think I will compare favorably with the average of 'mere man'."

"Every man is peculiar to himself, and I have short comings in variety, but as his human to err, I'm willing to forgive any foolish woman. "Frightful to talk of oneself in this manner, now isn't it? But how would the ladies know of me unless I did, and I am beginning to feel much like the girl who approaches the borderland of old-maidship on the home stretch of last year. "I had rather play Jack Wright than ear, except when I'm very hungry, and I am going to do my level best this afternoon, for who knows but that I will win a permanent abode in this beautiful city."

Talk about being delighted with a community, that hardly expresses my feelings for Colorado Springs. I could live here always, well, rather yes. "There will be no assessment if the lady who wins this afternoon takes the candy instead. I have gotten used to it, but at that, I am willing to play the candy, just for the sake of showing that I am tame, and also in making it plain that she has overlooked a golden opportunity in not being willing to take a chance. "The Lottery Man" at the Burns theater, has had a most excellent attendance all week, and the advance sale for this afternoon and tonight is exceedingly large, and there is every reason to believe every seat will be occupied at both performances.

LAST TIME, "QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER," MATINEE TODAY

At the Grand Opera house today matinee and night performance will close the most successful week of summer stock this season with "Quincy Adams Sawyer" as the attraction. This play is by all means the prettiest rural drama ever written, being a back play it has become as popular as "Way Down East" or "The Old Homestead." "Quincy Adams Sawyer" is a piece everyone should see, young and old. It is a play for the children and today's matinee will doubtless be seen by hundreds of the younger folks.

"MAM'ZELLE" NEXT WEEK

Opening Monday evening and running for one entire week, "Mam'zelle" will be presented for the second time this season. Last month Mr. Hawley and company were seen in "Mam'zelle," playing to record-breaking business. It is an Anna Held production with plenty of laughs and music, which goes to make it a big success wherever it is offered.

"PORTUGUESE JOE," TODAY, AT THE MAJESTIC

The sailor-men patronize the saloon, kept by Portuguese Joe and his pretty wife, and they put it over the simple Dago in a peculiarly sailorlike fashion. They get their drinks, and are not willing to pay. One day one of them carried the scheme so far as to get a drink on the nod, and then to pour into it the contents of a package he had containing a white powder. This mixture he swallowed. Feeling death, he is dragged out of the hotel, but Joe, who is alarmed lest the police appear, and a dead drunk he found on the premises. So Joe put the man on the street. Several of the sailor-men habitues, seeing the powder, tasted it and find-

THE DALTON RAID
At Coffeyville, Kan., in Motion Pictures, the Savoy—Emmett Dalton Acts in the Picture.
The last raid of the Dalton gang, at Coffeyville, Kan., October 5, 1892, has been reproduced in motion pictures. Emmett Dalton, the only surviving member of the gang, after spending 15 years of a years' sentence in the Kansas prison, posed and created this great picture. The picture was reproduced on the streets of Coffeyville, using the same banks that were robbed by the Daltons, 20 years ago.
The picture features the work of the Daltons on the interior of the banks, and the battle between the citizens and the bandits, in death after, where four Daltons and three citizens were killed.
The picture, in addition to being very sensational, is a most moral lesson. It clearly depicts the danger of sin to be death, and the way of the transgressor lead.
This feature will be shown at the Savoy theater, in addition to the reg-

Evans and Wood Will Play 'Today for Title

Neville and Tegg Eliminated in the Semifinals Yesterday

DENVER, July 19.—The amateur championship of the Western Golf Association for 1912 lies between Warren K. Wood, Homewood Golf club, Chicago, and Charles Evans, Jr., Chicago. Wood defeated J. Neville, present pacific coast champion, 5 up and 3 to play, and Evans defeated H. G. Legg, Minneapolis, 4 up and 3 to play, in the semifinal 36 holes played here under almost perfect weather conditions.

In the last half of the semifinals between Wood and Neville, with the score 4 up in favor of Wood at the 18th, as the result of Neville's driving to the bunkers in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth holes, Neville played gutted golf, winning one and halving four holes, but in a last round of nine holes, he overcame the green at the sixth hole in his hand shot, after winning the fifth of halving the first three holes, Neville won the fourth by a beautiful short putt.

The most noteworthy feat of the 36-hole play was Wood's winning the sixteenth hole in three strokes, the second time this has been accomplished since 1905. For on this hole he five, in the second half of the match he played "chick" Evans of Chicago and G. Legg of Minneapolis. Evans holed a first; the second and third were 4; Evans won the fourth and fifth, and the sixth and seventh were 4; and the eighth and ninth were 4. In this, which was the third hole round, Legg knocked Evans' 11 in on the fifth and on the sixth Evans' ball hit the flag, on a hard drive, saving him from going out of bounds and losing the hole.

In the fourth round, Legg got three parsable lies on the first hole which he won. Evans won the second, third and fourth, easily holed the first, while in the fourth Legg missed.

THOMAS AND ATTELL MAY FIGHT SEPT. 2

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Jimmy Harrison, manager of Owen Moran and Alvin Thomas, telegraphed today to Ben Attele, Alvin's manager, that Nolan Attele could arrange a Labor day fight between Attele and Thomas. Attele plans to open negotiations in a few days for a return match with Jimmy Kilbane, in Albany, N. Y. He seemed much pleased when informed that the six months ban placed on him by the New York Athletic commission has been lifted, and expressed his intention of going to New Orleans to try to rehabilitate himself in the fighting world.

COMMISSION MEN AND POLICE TO PLAY TODAY

The crack nine from the police department and the commission men team will clash on Washington field this afternoon at 4 o'clock in what is advertised as "one of the classic exhibitions ever seen in the city."

The game, for the police, will be a sort of preliminary to the match with the Purple Police nine, on a local level, a week from today, when the police will attempt to carry off the honors.

The lineup in full follows: Police: Tom Eike, C. Jap, Austin, P. Anthony, Th. Schuler, C. Port, G. Gulliver, B. Gast, H. Gaylin, C. Radtke, back 11.

Commission Men: C. Brock, C. Underhill, C. Thompson, Th. Griffin, Th. Tullman, C. Hesser, C. Casey, C. Ogle, H. Crane, C. Hughes, C. Doble, C. Ryall, etc.

DECIDE ON FINALISTS IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

BOSTON, July 19.—The finalists in the eastern doubles lawn tennis championships, as decided by today's play on the courts of the Longwood Cricket club, are W. J. Clothier of Philadelphia and G. P. Gardner, Jr., of Boston, vs. Craig Biddle and R. N. Williams, both of Philadelphia.

In the semifinals today, Clothier and Gardner defeated N. W. Niles and A. S. Dabney, both of Boston, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2.

In the Longwood Cricket club's singles, the only match played resulted in the advancement of Karl H. Behr to the semifinals by his defeat of W. M. Hall of New York in straight sets.

WASHINGTON, 5-10; ST. LOUIS, 2-1.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Washington defeated St. Louis in both games of a double-header. Green-outfielder Powell in the first game, while Washington was pitched by Jimmie Smith in the second. Green out-dugout in the box in the third inning of the second game, Hamilton taking his place and doing well.

Score: First game. R.H.E. Washington 5, St. Louis 1. Two-base hits: Green, 2. Three-base hit: Green. Struck out: St. Louis 1. First base on balls: St. Louis 1. Green and Williams; Powell and Stephens.

NEW YORK, 4; CLEVELAND, 3.

NEW YORK, July 19.—New York won from Cleveland in the tenth. Ford and Blanding fought out a clever pitchers' duel. In the tenth, with two out, Symons doubled. Blanding purposely passed Hartnett to take a chance at Martin, and the latter drove in Symons with a clean single to left field.

Score: First game. R.H.E. New York 4, Cleveland 3. Two-base hits: Griggs, Martin, Sterrett, Symons. Homerun: DeKline. First base on balls: Off Ford, 2; Blanding, 3. Struck out: By Ford, 2; Blanding, 3.

BOSTON, 3-2; CHICAGO, 0-1.

BOSTON, July 19.—Boston won both games of a double-header from Chicago, but was forced to go 13 innings in the second. Hooper's double on top of Bedient's single decided a pitchers' battle between Bedient and Platteau in the second game. In the first game, Red Collins had the White Sox at his mercy, shutting them out, while his team mates piled up eight runs by hitting Benz and by Chicago's misplays. Bedie struck out five times during the day.

Score: First game. R.H.E. Boston 3, Chicago 0. Two-base hits: Kuhn, 2. First base on balls: Off Benz, 5. Bell, 1. Bell, 1. Collins, 1. Struck out: By Benz, 3; Bell, 1; Collins, 5.

DETROIT, 8-6; PHILADELPHIA, 6-14.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Cobb's batting again featured the double-header in which Detroit won the first and Philadelphia the second. In the first game, Cobb made three singles and two homers out of five times at bat, his second four-bagger winning the game. In the second game, he made a single and a triple, giving him seven successive hits for a total of 15 bases. Detroit fielded poorly in both games.

Score: First game. R.H.E. Philadelphia 6, Detroit 8. Two-base hits: Willett, 3. Struck out: By Willett, 3. First base on balls: Off Willett, 3. Brown, 6. Pennock, 1. Lapp, Willett, 1.

Change of Scene Sometimes Good for Ball Players

There are innumerable instances where good ball players have been let out by one major league club only to become stars for another after a little experience in a minor league. Eddie Foster is one of these. The question is often asked how Foster came to go away from New York. That club sent him to Rochester with the agreement that it would have the pick of the team in the fall. It is said that John Gammel, the manager of that club, gave it as his opinion to the owner of the New York club that Foster would not be of any help to his team, and he then consented to the sale of Foster to Washington, a deal which he undoubtedly had had reason to regret.

Maurice Rath furnishes another instance of where a good ball player was allowed to slip through the hands of two major league clubs, and is now making good for the White Sox with a vengeance. Philadelphia and Cleveland both had Rath, but he made good for neither because he was not played out the position where he belonged. They tried him at third and he failed, while he appears to be a wonderfully clever player at second.

Rube Marquard Lost 12 Pounds Winning Nineteen Games

Winning these 19 straight victories did not come to Rube Marquard, the famous New York southpaw, without any effort. Marquard admits that he was under a terrible strain and lost no less than 12 pounds. Everyone would talk to him about the prospect of winning the next game to help along his record, and as a consequence the pitcher was worrying all the time and was losing sleep as well as flesh. Marquard says he is glad it is all over and he can go about and work about one game instead of a string of 19.

WOLGAST BROKE HIS LEFT HAND ON JOE RIVERS

Reports from Los Angeles are such as to indicate that there will be any hurry in the signing of articles for a return bout between Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers. One story, as a matter of fact, stated positively that Wolgast seemed to appreciate more than ever his weakness and is in no haste to jump back into the ring for another round match.

In addition to all this, the news has come that Wolgast's left hand was broken in three places during his battle with Rivers, this being shown by an X-ray operation which the champion underwent.

Wolgast, himself, it is explained, has been in bad shape ever since the fight. He is pained in considerably, and he sought a surgeon to have an examination made. The physician says he saw three fractures, two of which were said to be serious.

Wolgast gave out an interview the other day in the southern city in which he declared that although the fingers had a great deal to say about a return match, he knew nothing about it.

According to the latest reports, Wolgast is expected to be back in the ring in a few days and may take them up. After the Moran-White fight, which is scheduled for next Saturday, July 20, Ad intends going to Tucson, to buy some land for a cattle company which he is organizing. Following that he proposes to go to Michigan and will take the boat that looks best to him.

"Rivers will keep until I am ready to fight him," is what the title holder says. "If he wants to fight any one in the meantime, he will have to take his chances of being whipped. Then I would never give him another match."

If this is true, it will knock McCarney's plans for a knock-out. The promoter has been figuring on Wolgast and Rivers as a certainty for Labor day. He might arrange a match between Willie Ritchie and Rivers, the winner to have a crack later at Wolgast. If Adolph refuses to fight on that date, it would mean as much money to him as a bout with the championship concerned.

Ritchie would doubtless be glad to take on Rivers if he were assured of a match with Wolgast by winning. The San Francisco should have no trouble to win over Rivers, and he would then be in a position where Wolgast would practically be forced into a match.

WALSH BREAKS OWN RECORD

SEATTLE, Wash., July 19.—Con Walsh, formerly of New York, now a member of the Seattle Athletic club, broke the world's record today in the 56-pound weight event by throwing the weight 15 feet 2 1/2 inches over a bar, one inch higher than his own record. The throw was made at the Athletic meet held under the auspices of the Seattle Golden State Athletic association.

SEALY IS NEW HEAVYWEIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The latest aspirant for recognition as a possible heavyweight championship contender is Bert Sealy of Alameda. He will be given a trial next Friday night at a smoker of local children, when he will box six rounds with Sailor Gordon, a trial horse who has kept through the mill.

Sealy is 34 years old, 6 feet 3 inches tall, and weighs 240 pounds. He is a native of New York and has been in the boxing business for many years.

Marquard and Keefe Owe Downfall to Cubs

It was the Chicago team that defeated the Keefe-Marquard duo in the first game of the season. The first game of the season was played on July 19, 1912, at the Cubs' home ground, Wrigley Field. The Cubs won the game 4 to 1, with Marquard and Keefe on the losing end.

Marquard and Keefe had been the leading pitchers in the National league for some time. Marquard had won 19 games and Keefe had won 18 games. They were both expected to be the leading pitchers in the league for some time.

Both pitchers started out with some support behind them. But as the heat of the season grew, their support began to wane. Marquard and Keefe were both expected to be the leading pitchers in the league for some time.

It was Keefe's fourteenth game, with the Philadelphia club, when he was hit by a line drive in the head. The drive was hit by a Philadelphia player, and it was a hard hit. Keefe was hit in the head, and he was out of the game.

THE ACID TEST AND ITS MEANING

IT IS difficult to avoid the conclusion that the machine Republicans of Colorado are today drunk with the hallucination of power.

This little catechism suggests the relation that should exist between the people and their party.

Question: What is a political party?

Answer: A political party is an organization of the voters who believe in the principles advocated by that party, and for the purposes, legal and moral, of permitting them to express and make effective their opinions; this party is created by them.

Question: Who are the officers and leaders of the party?

Answer: The men delegated with power by the people to serve them.

Here in Colorado this peculiar condition confronts a two to one majority of the people.

The self-constituted leaders of the party, having inherited control of the party machinery, are evidently determined upon its destruction.

The reasons for their course of action are apparent:

1. They, very obviously, care nothing for the success of the party or the principles of Republican voters. They seem determined to control the organization for some ulterior reason which they are afraid to present to the rank and file of voters openly as the issue upon which a vote of confidence is desired.
2. It is manifest that the idea of permitting the people to express their wishes through the party organization is foreign to those in control of the party machinery in Colorado at this time.

What have the Progressives of Colorado demanded?

A NUTSHELL.

1. That the people be afforded an opportunity to express their wishes and desires and that this expression be full, fair and honest and without coercion.
2. That the people, rather than a few self-constituted leaders shall exercise the control and direction of the Republican organization.

What can be argued against this?

Yet, in the fact of this condition thus fairly outlined, we are confronted by the machine politicians who say to us in effect that the wishes of the people shall not be considered; that the rule as they make it shall prevail; and that the Republican organization shall be directed from the top down rather than from the voters up. They have taken pains to suppress the expression of the sentiment of the people at the primaries. Under such circumstances and conditions Republicanism means nothing in Colorado. It is a phantom hallucination and dream.

Originally the Republican party was organized for the purpose of promoting popular government by the people. During the past few years the original idea has been thrown into the discard and machine leaders, from custom and usage, have had the brazen effrontery to dare the people to encourage anything but the power exercised by these select few.

The time is at hand now when the people are prepared to repudiate this self-constituted leadership by the select few; the Republican party is, at the present time, undergoing a process of regeneration.

We might just as well look the condition squarely in the face. There can be no compromise so far as the matter of removing the cancer of false leadership from the party is concerned.

The primaries to be held today, the county assembly to be held Monday and the State assembly to be held July 31, are the stage settings for a Punch and Judy show; Republicans who do not have to ask Gugenheim are not invited; others should attend.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

A FINANCIAL panic, with its resulting industrial depression, never comes when business pessimism or conservatism are the rule. If comes when business is rushing as never before and when everyone is sure that orders are going to be more numerous tomorrow than they are today; it comes when manufacturers and dealers feel that they can pay any price for their supplies today and get a still higher price for their products tomorrow.

The last year has been a waiting one; there has been no boom; business men have not been over-confident. The time has come for increased business activity. That activity will undoubtedly result, despite the old bugaboo of a presidential election, if the present crop indications are fulfilled.

Bradstreet's for last week summarized the present situation as follows:

Favorable crop progress, improved sentiment at the office, maintained activity in finished steel operations, some growth in buying for fall, a considerably good half-year's business in textile manufacturing, accelerated building operations, and better retail trade comprehended the leading favorable features revealed by this week's reports.

That Bradstreet's summary is well advised is evident from numerous reports which have appeared within the last few days. First of all the July crop report of the Department of Agriculture is encouraging:

Crops this season promise average results to a shade better. The aggregate of all grains as given by the Department of Agriculture in its July report indicates 4,322,000,000 bushels, an increase of 544,000,000 bushels over the final harvest of 1911. These figures mean much to the business interests of the country, and it is the first time this year that an official utterance as to the probable size of all grain crops has been made. While all the crops have not been harvested, they are sufficiently well advanced to enable the financial and business world to forecast the future with more confidence than at any time this year.

Wheat, corn and oats promise well.

The wheat promise of 629,000,000 bushels is 5,000,000 bushels more than last year. Corn, with 2,811,000,000 bushels, has an excess of 250,000,000 bushels. Oats with 1,139,000,000 bushels is 217,000,000 bushels over last year, and the second largest crop on record. It is so well advanced that little loss is anticipated.

The hay crop is assured.

Rains, which have been general of late over the spring wheat states have helped the small grain immensely. Optimism verging on enthusiasm exists among the business men of the Twin Cities who keep in touch with the conditions in the fields. The hay crop is assured and it is a big one. Already the price has fallen $3 a ton on account of the large crop.

On June 30 the United Steel Corporation reported the largest amount of unfilled orders since December 31, 1909. Steel mills are busy.

Steel mills and equipment factories are running at about full capacity, with sufficient orders on their books to keep them going for the greater part of the next six months.

Although in the South a large cotton crop is not yet assured, yet the abundant yield in other lines offers a basis for optimism. The net surplus of idle cars has been steadily decreasing for two months; on July 4 it was 64,024 as compared with 161,621 a year ago. Thus, the standard business barometers indicate prosperity.

Washington and Florida—about 200 of them in all, scattered through 32 states, as large as Oakland, with 150,000 population, and as small as Dell Rapids, S. D.

But what is more in point: Nearly every one of them has repeated Galveston's experience.

These towns were "in the hole" after one fashion or another, either badly in debt or under the thumb of a vice ring, or a public service corporation, or all three and more. They saw a way out. What did they do? Did they appoint an efficiency commission? No, they preferred to "destroy the city boss" by doing away with his peculiar function. In the "check and balance" plan he did not appear in the charter, but he was always and inevitably there, the indispensable expert who grew up on the outside to unite the jarring elements. He was in business for his pocket's good and was naturally an expensive adjunct. He did not foster efficiency and economy, but waste and extravagance. He was the living evidence of the fact that a check and balance plan won't work.

In cities built on the Galveston idea, there sometimes are powerful leaders—but there is no boss, in the sense that American politics has known him. The whole field of the government is directly under the control of the voter through the ballot. Every inch of ballot means something. It has no dark places. It is so short and so simple that the voter can take in the municipal situation at a glance. Under these conditions the ballot, as 200 cities testify, is a real power.

FROM OTHER PENS

PARCELS POST TO PANAMA.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Postmaster General Hitchcock is showing a praiseworthy enterprise in promoting the parcels post service in foreign ports. It is announced in a recent dispatch that a convention providing for the immediate institution of a parcels post between the United States and the Republic of Panama has just been concluded. Other countries with which the postmaster general is negotiating to the same end are Portugal, French Guiana, Martinique and Guadalupe.

There is no doubt that in a short time these several countries will be added to the list of those to which parcels may be sent from the United States through the mails at the rate of 12 cents a pound to a maximum weight of 11 pounds. This service is now operative between the United States and every part of the world, but within the limits of the United States itself the rate is 16 cents a pound and the weight limit is four pounds.

Seems silly, doesn't it?

AMERICA'S INVINCIBLE ARMY.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Two years ago there were in this country almost 17,000,000 children between the ages of 5 and 14, of whom almost 14,000,000 attended school. Altogether there were 17,000,000 persons, under 20 attending school.

These figures are impressive in many directions. It is a matter of congratulation that the school attendance is so large, but that there should be three millions of children of 5 to 14 years out of school is unpleasant to contemplate. Most of these were in the south, where education is at its lowest ebb. It is true that the south is making some progress in education, but it lags far behind the north in every respect. In that section country schools are open for brief periods and the instruction is poor.

Compared with the enlightened nations of Europe we are far behind in compulsory education, but it is only necessary to consult statistics of the last 50 years to note how great has been the progress there. We were ahead a century ago. We have lost ground because we have not compelled education as have European nations.

Nevertheless, the showing is inspiring. It seems certain that a score of years hence literacy will be so rare in this country as to be negligible. The army of boys and girls going to school is invincible. Education is not everything in this world, but without it little of value can be achieved. The cost of education per capita is now double what it was a generation ago. It will double again in the next 30 years.

As this nation grows in population it must see to it that every child shall start in life with the best possible equipment which the state can compel or private means afford.

Offensive Optimism

By RUTH CAMERON.

Is there any virtue, I wonder, when carried to excess, does not become a vice, or at least a defect? It seems to me that the old Greek motto "nothing in excess" has been more of wisdom in it than appears on the surface.

I am thinking today, especially of optimism. Optimism is certainly a most beautiful quality. I preach it, teach it and try to live by my own preaching and teaching. Indeed, Charles Reade's "Courage, comrade, the devil is dead," is one of my favorite mottoes. And yet I have seen even optimism gone to seed and bringing forth thorns instead of fruit.

There are some people who are what I call offensive optimists. In an office where I used to work there was a most exaggerated example of this type. Mrs. H. was an optimist from the word go. Day after day she used to come into the office in the morning in a mood of fervent enthusiasm and delight over her own affairs, and address us something like this:

"I am so happy this morning. My high heels have just sent me the loveliest bracelet from abroad," and then would follow a lengthy description of the beauties of this wonderful bracelet, its probable value, her uncle's wealth, some of his former gifts, etc.

Or it was, "Oh, girls, Jim (her husband) is going to buy me the handsomest gown, one we saw in the window. He says I haven't had anything fit to wear for an age"—she who dressed infinitely better than any of us.

Or "My dear, isn't it perfectly lovely. I am to have a raise in pay the first of the month. I am so happy. Aren't you glad for me?"—wasn't that asking a good deal when she knew that she already received twice as much as most of us, and knew that we knew it?

I have known pessimists who wore on my nerves, but none any more grating than this offensive optimist.

Surely you have known someone of her type, someone who, no matter what your mood, was always loudly calling on you to rejoice with him over his good fortunes. Now there is a great deal said about obtruding one's joys and sorrows on other people; is there not such a thing as obtruding one's enthusiasm and good fortune?

When the Bible says, "rejoice with them that do rejoice," it adds the complement, "and weep with them that weep." It does not advise a selfish and tasteless optimism that persists in rejoicing, and in asking others to rejoice with you, no matter what their state of mind or their private troubles may be.

Maybe I'm very selfish, but there are times when, although I am glad for him, I don't feel like laughing all about my neighbor's wonderful good fortune and perhaps I understand human nature better. Certainly there is a lurking suspicion that there are good many other folks who sometimes feel the same way.

The Short Ballot Movement

By H. S. GILBERTSON

ML—Redeeming the Cities From Bossism.

When James Bryce had completed his survey of American politics and was setting down his conclusions in "The American Commonwealth," there was only one thing about it all which seemed hopeless. American legislatures were venal, congress was extravagant. But the government of cities was "the one conspicuous failure" in American life.

The words were written nearly 30 years ago, and for at least 20 years most varieties of attempts had been made in better municipal conditions. In New York, Boss Tweed was caught and his career exposed. But after a few years of frenzied indignation, another boss stepped into his shoes. The people kept blundering on in their blind way, incapable, apparently, of self-government.

Then came an "act of Providence" consisting of a tidal wave which tore down the walls of Galveston and destroyed the city. This was 1900.

The old Galveston had been a fairly representative specimen of the American city, and it had had perhaps more than its share of ignorant, corruptible voters, who were supposed to account for a good deal of the political troubles of the big cities. It had had its share of graft, inefficiency and waste, its intricate mechanisms of government and its manner mechanics, the bosses.

Then the government broke down with the disaster, and there was created, out of a new one, a fairly simple and more natural. The men who framed it perhaps did not know and certainly did not care anything about the idea of "check and balance," the glorious theory which underlies the usual form of American city government, and, until recently, been considered the bulwark of liberty. They did not want the mayor vetoing the acts of the council and the council withholding appropriations from the mayor, and a string of independent minor officials defying their superiors. They wanted swift, effective, consistent action by the agents of the people, without the aid of the backstairs experts. So they picked five men and let them run the town. Three of the first were appointed by the governor, but later all five were elected by the people. There was no provision for nonpartisan elections, none for the initiative, the referendum, the recall or for civil service; just a short ballot and a unified organization.

The new charter was a success from the start. A new sea wall was built. An end was made of midnight caucuses and speech making. The annual expenditures no longer exceeded the income, and the bonded indebtedness was taken care of for the first time in years. Most significant of all, the men who had always been pulling the strings from behind the scenes disappeared completely from power and in consequence municipal government ceased to be a mystery.

The story of Galveston, spread first in the Nation, then in Dallas and San Antonio. That it brought out of every direction all these cities which had the Galveston plan in mind and California, and in Washington and Florida—about 200 of them in all, scattered through 32 states, as large as Oakland, with 150,000 population, and as small as Dell Rapids, S. D.

But what is more in point: Nearly every one of them has repeated Galveston's experience.

These towns were "in the hole" after one fashion or another, either badly in debt or under the thumb of a vice ring, or a public service corporation, or all three and more. They saw a way out. What did they do? Did they appoint an efficiency commission? No, they preferred to "destroy the city boss" by doing away with his peculiar function. In the "check and balance" plan he did not appear in the charter, but he was always and inevitably there, the indispensable expert who grew up on the outside to unite the jarring elements. He was in business for his pocket's good and was naturally an expensive adjunct. He did not foster efficiency and economy, but waste and extravagance. He was the living evidence of the fact that a check and balance plan won't work.

TAKE FIRST STEPS IN ARCHBOLD TRIAL

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The impeachment court which will try Judge Archbold of the commerce court, after a brief session today, fixed August 3 as the limit for all formal answers and then adjourned until July 20, without deciding if the trial shall go on this summer or go over until fall.

The senate resolved itself into the impeachment court shortly after its session began, and word was sent to the house that it was ready to proceed.

Judge Archbold reached the Capitol some time before the hour set for his appearance. He had determined to appear personally to answer the senate's summons. With him was an attorney, A. S. Worthington of Washington, and his son, Robert W. Archbold, Jr., of Philadelphia, also an attorney. As Sergeant-at-Arms Ramsdell made the formal proclamation:

Robert W. Archbold, appear and answer the charges made against you." Judge Archbold leaned forward to listen.

Mr. Worthington arose and said that the respondent is present in person to answer.

Mr. Worthington submitted a motion for time in which to prepare and submit his answer. It named no date. Senator Clark of Wyoming immediately offered an order to fix the date of answer at July 24. Mr. Worthington asked for a delay of 20 days.

Senator McClure proposed to extend the time to July 31, but Representative Clayton insisted for the managers upon an answer July 24. Senator Lodge suggested Monday, July 29.

Under the rules of the impeachment court, a roll call was necessary on the motion to extend the time to July 29. The senate ordered Judge Archbold to answer the charges against him Monday, July 29.

The house managers were ordered to present their rebuttal answer August 1, and the limit of time for all supplementary answers was fixed at August 3. At this time the issues in the case will be required to be complete.

The court then rose to resume its sittings Monday, July 29.

GRAND JUNCTION MAY HAVE A MUNICIPAL COAL MINE

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Grand Junction, Colo., will own and operate the first municipal coal mine in the United States through direct authority from the government, if present plans mature.

Cities and towns in all of the public land states where coal is to be found are expected to follow the lead of Grand Junction as fast as either state or city charters can be amended authorizing the municipalities to go into the coal business. The result will be a tremendous saving to the municipalities as well as the opening of many new coal mines throughout the west.

For the past year Representative Taylor of Colorado has been conferring with the secretary of the interior on a bill authorizing municipalities to purchase coal lands from the government and operate them for the benefit of their citizens.

The secretary has been ready from the first to favor a measure authorizing him to lease government coal properties to municipalities, but the Colorado congressman has refused to consent to the lease plan and stoutly contended for the city's right to purchase the land outright, with the right not only to mine coal for its own use but to sell it to its citizens at cost.

Secretary Fisher has been inclined to the belief that this would be a step too Socialist in character to be taken all at once, but has finally agreed that if the city of Grand Junction desires to purchase 400 acres of coal land for its own exclusive use, and not for the purpose of selling to others, he will not stand in the way if Congress consents.

He is even willing to waive the established price now fixed on lands of this character, and would recommend a nominal charge of only $1 per acre.

It is claimed Grand Junction has a charter which will permit of its going into the coal business, although the majority of municipalities would be compelled to amend their charters or the state law before they could take advantage of such legislation.

TAKE ACTION IN KANSAS TO COMBAT TAFT MOVE

TOPEKA, Kan., July 19.—Acting under instructions from Governor Stubbs the attorney general today filed in the supreme court an application for a writ of mandamus to compel county clerks to prepare the primary ballot for the election for August 6, and to present the adherents of President Taft from hindering the work by injunctive proceedings.

The court set the hearing for the case for tomorrow morning. The petition is a general denial of the charges brought against the Roosevelt presidential electors including the complaint that the signatures to the nomination papers were obtained by fraud and false pretenses.

The suit was brought in the name of the attorney general on behalf of the state and the eight Roosevelt presidential electors. The petition declares that the electors were chosen by Republican district conventions as proper persons to represent those districts in the Kansas electoral college.

MEXICANS CHARGE FRAUD ON PART OF JAPANESE

DENVER, July 19.—Three hundred Mexicans are demanding money on subcontracts for the cultivation of beets in the Orday and Sugar City field of which they claim to have been defrauded by Japanese who hold practically all contracts in the district. The Mexican Beneficial association has filed incorporation papers with the secretary of state looking to the protection of the interests of the Mexicans employed in the beet fields of Colorado. Labor Commissioner Brake has taken the matter up officially and will attempt to render assistance through his office.

AMERICA'S GREAT ENDOWMENTS XI—THE CARNEGIE ENDOWMENT FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACE

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Andrew Carnegie's gift of $10,000,000 for the establishment of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace came after years of interest in the movement for the abolition of wars among civilized nations. In the latter part of 1910 he concluded the best way to bring about that desirable result was to finance a world-wide movement in favor of arbitration as a substitute for the sword as a method of ending international disputes. He therefore gathered together a group of strong men in whom he had great confidence, and made them trustees of a fund of $10,000,000, the income to be spent in promotion of world-peace.

Coming on top of his great gift of the peace palace at The Hague, his gift to the Pan-American Union, and his gift for the construction of the building of the central American court of justice at Cartago, Costa Rica, Mr. Carnegie's gift for this foundation was a most magnificent one.

The Laird of Skibo has evolved a program which he hopes to live to see the nations of the earth carry out, a purpose which probably he best expressed in his talk a year ago at the National Press club of Washington. He said that all civilized nations have established courts for the settlement of difficulties between individuals, and have denied to all their citizens the right to settle them by brute force. He feels that no individual is fit to sit in judgment in his own case, and that nations are nothing more than collections of individuals, each no more fit to determine the righteousness of a cause in which it is interested than is an individual when bitter disputes arise. Therefore, he concludes, if a citizen may be held into a national court and there made to do justice by his fellow man, why should not a nation be made to come into an international court and there compelled to do justice by its fellow-nation? That is the way Mr. Carnegie thinks world peace may be made possible. He would bring into actual being the "federation of the world and the parliament of man."

Advance the Cause of Peace.

When Mr. Carnegie announced his wife he declared that the trustees should, from time to time, and from age to age, ask themselves how they best can help man in his glorious ascent, onward and upward, and use the fund accordingly. When his trustees organized the foundation one of the first things they agreed was that there should be no duplication of effort, but cooperation with existing agencies. It was early decided to get a federal charter for the foundation, and one was obtained under the direction of Senator Ellitt Root, the president of the foundation.

This charter announces that it is the purpose of the foundation to advance the cause of peace among nations, to hasten the abolition of international wars, and to encourage the peaceful settlement of international differences. The methods by which it is proposed to achieve these ends are numerous. The first is by a scientific investigation into the causes of wars and practical methods of preventing and avoiding them. It proposes to aid in the development of international law to try to secure a world-wide agreement, thereby, to educate the people of the world concerning the causes, nature and efforts of war; to establish a better understanding of international rights and duties, and a more perfect sense of international justice. It also proposes to direct its energies toward a better understanding between the different nations of the earth, and in the promotion of a friendly feeling between their inhabitants.

Establish Three Divisions.

In the carrying out of the objects of the foundation, three divisions have been established: The division of intercourse and education is presided over by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University. This division has charge of the propaganda of the foundation. Its headquarters are in New York, but it maintains a European branch in Paris, which directs the propaganda for peace in Europe. There is also an advisory council made up of 50 prominent European statesmen. Aid is given to all the peace agencies of Europe, including both organizations and periodicals.

The direct way in which Direct Butler work for peace is illustrated in the course he pursued last year when the German and the English press were urging their respective peoples to go to war. Viscount Haldane delivered a address at Oxford on "England and Germany: a Study of National Characteristics." The viscount was secretary of state for war and his address was an authoritative utterance. When it did not directly discuss the pending problems that threatened open war, was an utterance which Director Butler thought would tend to lead the Germans to a better feeling toward the English kinsmen. He directed the issuance of a quarter of a million copies of the address and their distribution all of the editors, teachers, bankers, lawyers, doctors, preachers, government officials and people of every class and profession, who might influence German public sentiment. The German press was pleased with the address at the spirit behind the circulation of it and this proved to be one of the strongest factors in ending the danger of hostilities between the two countries.

Peace Movement Immensely Aided.

This division also conducts an exchange of teachers between the universities of Japan and those of the United States, and an exchange of teachers between Latin America and the United States. It proposes to pay the expenses of representative American who may be induced to visit foreign countries for the purpose of having a better understanding of American institutions and ideals. It fosters the work of the American Peace society and the Association for International Conciliation. It labored diligently in behalf of the peace treaties that were pigeon-holed by the senate, and which failed to bring about the satisfaction brought an aroused public sentiment. At the same time, the general peace movement was immeasurably aided.

The division of economics and history is headed by Dr. John Bates Clark of New York. Its first work upon organizing was to hold a conference at Rome for the purpose of planning scientific investigation into the cause and effects of war. This investigation is now being carried forward by representatives in all the principal countries. The lines the investigation is taking are most interesting. Not only does it embrace an investigation into the causes of war, but it considers the conflicts of economic interests at the present time, such as the policy of protection, international loans, rivalries among states with respect to investments in foreign countries, armament in time of peace; military and naval establishments; the effect of war preparations upon the economic and social life of a nation, and the influences tending to bring nations into harmonious accord.

Division of International Law.

The division of international law is headed by James Brown Scott, former solicitor for the state department. This division is charged with the duty of aiding in the development of international law and with the encouragement to the acceptance of its rules among nations. It has undertaken to work in the direction of the establishment of a better understanding of international rights and a better appreciation of international justice. It also will strive to propose peaceable methods for the settlement of all international disputes. It is proposed to make a collection of all the international treaties of the world, a collection of all the laws, ordinances and decrees of the various countries, relating to international law, and a collection of all judicial decisions relating to these treaties, laws, ordinances, etc.

AMERICA'S GREAT ENDOWMENTS.

THE CARNEGIE ENDOWMENT FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACE

Senator Root has proposed the making of an abstract of the provisions contained in all the treaties of the world in which there are to be found international agreements which would, if generally assented to, constitute international law. It is proposed to call a conference of the international lawyers of the world at some early date to consider the common problems of the countries they represent and to secure a working cooperation with the institute of international law, an organization which has in the past been the pioneer in the field of international agreement on points of world-wide law. Financial assistance will be given to those journals of international law which have proved their worth in aiding the peace movement. The establishment of a school of international law at The Hague probably will be undertaken by the foundation at no distant date, and something like $40,000 a year will be set aside toward its maintenance. It is also proposed to publish all known authentic treaties international, national and colonial, and Mr. John Bassett Moore will prepare a catalog containing the history of all known international treaties in the history of international relations.

The general offices of the foundation are located in Washington. The administrative official of the organization is the secretary, who holds that position in conjunction with the directorship of the division of international law. The foundation has an annual income of half a million dollars. For the present fiscal year its appropriations amount to $137,270. Of this over $50,000 goes to the general administrative work—over $200,000 to the division of international law and education, $30,000 to the division of archives and history, and more than $100,000 to the division of international law. Over $50,000 will be spent for the promotion of this peace propaganda in the United States, $31,000 through the American Peace society and $20,000 through the association for international confederation. $10,000 of this being for work done abroad.

In tomorrow's letter Mr. Haskin will review the history of the special endowments of the great American universities.
